Animals on the Plain

One morning, a lion was walking on the plain. He was going hunting. He saw an elephant and a zebra.

“What a great meal these two would be,” he thought.

The elephant did not see the lion, because she was using her big trunk to put the grass into her mouth.

The zebra was also eating grass next to the elephant when he heard the lion coming.

“Hurry, run away!” said the zebra. “Why?” asked the elephant. “Because the lion is coming to eat us,” said the zebra.

The elephant got scared. She ran away fast. The lion was running to catch the zebra, but the zebra was running very fast. The elephant was also very scared and kept running until she found some big rocks to hide behind.

While the elephant was hiding, she fell asleep. A little later, the elephant woke up screaming. She started to cry because she thought the lion ate her trunk and her big ears.

She was looking for her trunk and her big ears. She was very happy when she found her trunk and ears on her head. "What a bad dream!" thought the elephant.
